DEXUS CEO abseils down 1 Bligh for charity

DEXUS Property Group CEO, Victor Hoog Antink today abseiled down the central atrium of the 1 Bligh Street office tower to raise money for charity.

The event is part of the Property Industry Foundation's National Hard Hat to help homeless young Australians at risk. The campaign has already raised over $700,000 in the last year for homeless kids.

This is the second time Victor has stepped off the edge of a tall building for charity after a similar effort at the AMP tower for the Sir David Martin Foundation in 2010.

1 Bligh will be officially opened on Tuesday (30 August) evening by the Prime Minister and with special guests attending including the world renowned architect Christoph Ingenhoven.
